Said Trustee is authorized and empowered to take immediate possession of the goods and evidences of debt, and to sell the goods at retail or wholesale, so as to produce the largest amount of money, and to sue upon or otherwise collect all debts due us; and if he cannot sell the same at wholesale, then he will continue to sell the same at retail, and if by the 25 Dec. 1881, he has not sold out the entire stock, any balance remaining on hand at that time he may and shall sell at auction or otherwise. We have on hand both winter, spring and fall goods, and it will require two seasons in which to sell such kind at the best prices, if he sells the same by retail. As the said Trustee realizes money (always keeping in hand sufficient to pay the expenses of the trust), he will disburse the sums to the creditors of the first class, in the order named, and so on until he shall have paid all the debts, with interest, mentioned in said class; and the balance he will pro-rata to the creditors of the second class, as fast as sufficient money comes to his hand to declare a dividend, and until the whole are paid. This the 4 January, 1881. Shields, Hall & Co.
