FOURTH: If any one of my said children should be deceased at my death, then her share shall go to her issue per stirpes; but if any one of my said children should be deceased without issue, then the share of such deceased child shall go to my surviving children in equal shares.

FIFTH: If my said wife and I should die as the result of a common disaster under such circumstances that it cannot be reasonably determined which of us died first, I direct that my estate be administered as though my wife has survived me.

SIXTH: I nominate, constitute and appoint my said wife, Dorothy E. Mason, as Executrix of this my last will and testament, and I direct that she not be required to give surety on her bond.
