other Chemo med, 5FU, more effective.

After several hours, they had a nurse from an outside pharmacy hook me up to the 5FU pump which I had to wear home from the hospital and keep on for [redacted] 48 hours. Technically 46, but whatever.

Having a needle in your chest for 46 hours is super unpleasant at the best of times, but it was way worse after having a terrible reaction to your first ever chemo drug. That for sure made it worse, because I spent 46 hours with a needle in my chest worried that I was going to have another bad reaction, but at home where there isn't a team of nurses to help me.

So, yeah. Cancer. I've got it. Well, I've had it, but now I definitely feel it.

I hope that I'll survive my cancer. I hope that I've got a long happy life ahead of me. On the (unfortunately good) chance that I don't make it through my rectal cancer journey alive, I need a will. This is my will. I am in possession of my faculties, in case anyone is concerned. I also know what I own and who the natural objects of my bounty are. I think that's the phrase that old dude used in my Wills & Estates Barbri class. Whatever. Let's get to the part where I leave stuff to family members and friends. Cool? Cool. Also, instructions. Those are at the end.

1. Coloring books - I want all of my coloring books (that I haven't colored in) to go to Mae Williamson. I don't know her address, but she is a guard at an apartment complex called University Square, which is located at 900 19th Ave. S, Nashville, TN 37212.

Tell Mrs. May that I had a wonderful time getting to know her and that she's one of the best people I've ever known. Her friendship got me through some tough times and I am incredibly thankful for her and her patience & kindness.

2. The painting with the abstract circles on a pink and purple background - I want this painting to go to my therapist, Marcia Lara at Athena Consulting. Please thank her for having an understanding ear and tell her she should do the Camino sooner rather than later. She'll know what I'm talking about.

3. My condo at 2025 Woodmont Blvd, Unit 118, Nashville, TN 37215, My investment accounts at Fidelity Investment company ~~co manag~~ (contact my financial advisor, Brandon Griffey re this account) my bank account at Auburn Banking Company, and any other real or personal property, that I have not specifically named or bequeathed, I want to go to my maternal grandmother, Flora Malone. I also want Flora Malone to decide what to do with my frozen eggs (they are currently being preserved ~~in a freezer~~ by a company associated with the Tennessee Fertility Institute.)

4. My collection of books and my Kindle – I want my entire library of books to go to my cousin, Natalie Malone. I think she'll appreciate them.

To everyone else: I made these decisions because I think Granny needs the money in my investment accounts and the money from the sale of my condo and other possessions. It will give her a measure of comfort and independence and while I don't think it will make her any happier, I hope that it will at least give her peace.

I love all of you: Stephanie, Celida, Sandra,

Ricky, Natalie, Ronnie, Courtney, Shirley, Logan, Brooklie, and Granny,

I wish I could be there with you, but since I can't, I hope you will all be happy. I hope you will live fully, bravely, and always, always in the moment. I hope you will remember me and be inspired to go after the things you want right now and never let anyone stop you. I love you. All of you. I hope you knew that even though I didn't do a very good job of showing it.

Note: I forgot to say earlier that I want to ensure that my birth father and his relatives do not receive anything from my estate. Craig Newborn and his family ignored me my whole life and I do not want them to benefit from my death.

Finally, funeral instructions: Don't spend more than $10,000 on my funeral. Buy a Simple white casket and bury me besive my mother at the cemetary across the Street from Macedonia Baptist Church in Auburn, KY. I want a graveside servie with no sermon. Please ask Michael Frank Elliott Sr. to offer a brief prayer over my casket. If a few relatives would like to talk about their happy memories of me, that would be alright. If someone could sing Beyonce's "I was Here" that would be awesome. You can place a tasteful white ~~bouq~~ Calla lily arrangement on my casket, but I don't want people to send flowers — instead, please ask people to make donations to one of the following Charities:

Crohn's & Colitis Foundation of America
International Ostomy Association
American Cancer Society

For my body: I'm not sure if I will have hair, but if I don't please choose a tasteful wig for me and try to make it look as natural as possible.

Keep my makeup simple - foundation powder, blush, eyeliner, earth tone eyeshadow (ideally something bronze), & mascara. Lip color is fine but choose something subtle. I don't want to look talky at my own funeral. French tip manicure. Like I said. Simple.

Keep my outfit simple. A pretty dress and a cardigan is fine with a cute necklace and simple stud earrings. Try to make sure my port scar isn't showing

I don't anticipate my funeral being very big so just make it quick and quiet. I've always thought graveside services were sensible so stick with that unless it's way too cold or hot out. Don't bother with radio announcements. Just use my facebook account to write a message on my wall letting people know I've died and when the funeral is. Most people won't know me well enough to come so that will be enough and it will cut down the cost of the funeral.

*In the event that Granny predeceases me, I want everything I left to Granny earlier in this will (Granny is Flora Malone) to ~~go to~~ be split evenly between ~~Stephanie~~ Stephanie Malone, Celida Malone, Sandra Malone-Gilmer, and Shirley Malone-Fenner to offset the costs they incurred caring for me during my illness. I want Ricky Malone to get $1,500 as payment for helping me move items at my condo and for staining my bookshelves (he did not assist in caretaking and as such should not receive as much as my aunts.)
